| 2. GREAT JOB RICK!! | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:51 |
| 3. There appeared to be some problems with the audio. Toward the end, I was hearing about 1 of every 20 words. | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:31 |
| 4. Much of what Rick said I have heard before, but he did have a few "nuggets" that were useful. It would have been helpful to allow time for people to write in questions; I was too busy listening to the presentation and answers to questions to formulate some of my own. | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:31 |
| 5. Very pragmatic. Good job! | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:11 |

| 7. Some technical difficulty with audio goin in and out. | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:11 |
| 8. Many times the sound was fading in so, could not hear the complete presentation in full. However, I think the topic of stayed in line with what I have also experienced. Changing the scope as we go along and being insistent about the add-ons without any additional dollars are some of the usual instances I come across. We have to deal with this situation tactfully. | Thu, Jun 24, 2010 12:01 |

30.	Rick speaks too quickly and doesn't involve the audience much (interactive questions, polls, etc.). Interactivity would break up the monotony of the fast talk and help the audience synthesize (and relate to) the over-whelming amount of great content/advice he has to offer.	Thu, Jun 24, 2010 11:5
